Dr. Edward Hallowell and Dr. Peter Jensen combine years of experience to outline a practical approach to identifying and promoting the talents and strengths associated with ADHD while also addressing the various problems that can arise. This is a paradigm-breaking book that will help adults revise the way that they look at children with ADD, and it's full of useful information as well as hope and energy.

“This book is a must-read for parents, scientists, and physicians and it will obliterate once and for all a purely deficit-based model of understanding of ADHD.”

-Susan L. Smalley, Ph.D., professor of psychiatry and biobehavioral sciences, UCLA

“SuperParenting for ADD is written with an exuberance and directness that makes it easy reading...taking us inside the minds of ADD children and showing how the world works from their perspective. Hallowell and Jensen provide invaluable advice for parents and educators alike.”

- Tyler C. Tingley, principal, Phillips Exeter Academy
